

ESSENTIAL POWER

Keep the job site in motion with Prestolite and Leece-Neville

Recent analysis indicates the construction industry will see a rebound in the wake of COVID-19*, with increasing investments in much-needed public infrastructure projects, as well as continued residential development. Job sites will soon be re-appearing, and with the combined challenges of shortened schedules and new time-consuming health and safety processes, it's critical that projects keep moving with no delays.

Nothing stalls a project like stalled equipment. One inoperable excavator, loader or dump truck can bring the whole job to a standstill. With the likelihood that many of these machines have been recently sitting idle, it's time to make sure you're ready to roll when the developers come calling.

Prestolite Electric offers a wide range of alternators and starters that will make sure your construction equipment is operating consistently in even the most extreme conditions. Every moment of downtime costs you time and money, so look to the best to keep you up and running.
